THAT WILL BE SLOGAN OF BIG
MEETING AT DIXON OCT. 6.

MAYOR HEDDLES TO ATTEND

Also a Delegation of Other Businessmen from This City—Six Congressmen and Several Engineers to Speak.

"When the Sleeper Wakes" might be an appropriate title for the big drama that is going to be enacted by the people of the Rock river valley during the next twelve months. For fifty years the middle portion of a water-course which nature plainly intended for a great highway of commerce and which has always offered an easy solution of the transportation problems which have long vexed the so-called "inland" manufacturing centers of Southern Wisconsin and Northwestern Illinois, has been closed to navigation. Lake cities of small importance, enjoying the benefits of water competition, have not only prospered
but have also from time to time, received great appropriations from the government for deepening their harbors and dredging channels. Nothing excepting an occasional federal building has come to the inland towns to compensate them for the favoritism shown, their more fortunate neighbors. Soft coal which ought to be brought here from the Illinois fields for 20 cents costs eighty cents. Transportation charges on hard coal are $1.20. There are tariffs to match on every other commodity not produced in this community.

Big Meeting at Dixon.
Dixon, Ill., is to be the scene of the opening act of the movement to restore Rock river to its rightful place among the great navigable streams of the United States. Representatives in congress, mayors of cities, engineers, manufacturers and wide-awake citizens from every section have been summoned to a great session which will be in progress there on Oct. 6 and 7. The ostensible and obvious purpose of the gathering is to consider plans for making the Rock river navigable from its sources in Wisconsin to the Mississippi, thus opening up a new waterway from the Hudson state to the Gulf of Mexico. Addresses will be delivered by Congressman Cooper and Jenkins of Wisconsin and Lowden, Fuller, Prince, and McKim-mer of Illinois; by L. L. Wheeler, the engineer in charge of the construction of the Hennepin canal; and by Major C. S. Helle, commander of the Rock Island government arsenal. When two great states, through their representatives at Washington, take a hand in this movement, it looks as though Uncle Sam would have to sit up and take notice. The proposed improvement includes the building of a number of power dams along the river,
sites for nineteen of which have already been secured, not including the government's big plant at Sterling.
The delegates will take a trip to Rock Island and return in a government boat, going by way of the Hennepin canal, which was recently completed
and opened for navigation.

Mayor Heddles Receives Notice.
From L. E. Edwards, superintendent of schools of L. E. county, Illinois, Mayor Heddles this morning received
the following letter:

Dixon, Illinois, Sept. 15, 1908.
To the Mayor,
Janesville, Wisconsin.

Dear Sir: We are to have a meeting in Dixon Oct. 6th and 7th, '08, for business and commercial organization,
to be known as the Rock River Improvement association. Each city,
business and commercial organization,
manufacturers' association and water power company is entitled to send three delegates to this meeting.

I will greatly appreciate it if you will send me by return mail three hundred of each of the above organizations and corporations in your city. I wish to send them invitations, programs and free tickets to the banquet and for the steamboat ride down the Hennepin Canal.

This organization is going to mean much to the cities and villages along Rock river; hence, not only each city
but every one of the organizations and corporations above enumerated
should be represented at the meeting
by a full delegation.

Let me know, also, the names of the delegates that are to represent your city. You should be one of them.
Enclosed find stamped envelope for reply. Please don't delay answering as the time is getting short.

Very respectfully,
L. E. EDWARDS, Chairman.

Janesville Delegates.

Mayor Heddles will forward the names of George S. Barker, president of the Janesville Improvement association; M. G. Jeffers, president of the Janesville Electric Co.; George Mc-Kay, president of the Janesville Power Plant Club, and others. He will attend the meeting himself and will call upon David Holmes, secretary and treasurer of the Hodgott Milling Co., and M. G. Jeffers to accompany him as delegates from this city.

OPENING OF THE
ROSEBUD LANDS

Drawing Will Take Place at Dallas,
South Dakota, on Monday,
October 19,
Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C.

The President has signed a proclamation opening that part of the Rose-bud Indian Lands, in South Dakota,
generally known as the Tripp County
lands, and designated Judge James W.
Witten, the chief law officer of the General Land Office, to superintend and conduct the registration and drawing to be held in October next.

Persons who desire to be registered for this drawing must go to the town of Chamberlain, Dallas, Gregory, or Presho, in South Dakota, or to O'Neill or Valentine in Nebraska, between October 5th and October 17th, and there sign and swear to an application for registration which will be furnished by the officer administering the oath. All applications for registration must be delivered to Judge Witten at either Dallas or Gregory,
South Dakota, not later than 4:00 p. m., Saturday, October 17. The drawing will take place on the following Monday, October 19, at Dallas.

These lands embrace 838,000 acres,
a portion of which have been allotted to Indians, and are located on the South side of the state of South Dakota, and adjoin the lands in Gregory county, which were opened in 1904. They are said to be very desirable for farming and stock raising purposes, and similar lands in adjoining counties are selling for good prices.

The opening of the Gregory county lands, four years ago, was one of the largest and most important land openings ever held by the government, and attracted a great deal of attention; over 100,000 persons having been registered. From present indications the Tripp county opening will be even larger than the Gregory registration, since a much larger area of lands are to be opened. The plan adopted for this registration and drawing is similar to that used in the Gregory opening, but certain objectionable features which imposed hardships on applicants for registration have been eliminated. At the Gregory and former openings, applicants were required to appear in person and stand in line, often for a considerable length of time, and officers of the government examined them and determined their qualifications and registered them, while, at the approaching Tripp county opening no line will be formcd, and the people will be permitted to send in their applications by mail,
or otherwise, to the superintendent,
after they have been sworn to in one of the towns above mentioned.

Soldiers who served for three months during the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, or the Philippine Insurrection, will not be required to visit the towns mentioned for the purpose of registering, but may register through an agent.

Information as to the manner of registering and drawing, and blank applications which entitle soldiers to register by agent, can be obtained by writing to Judge Witten at Washington, D. C., prior to September 25, but after that date, application should be made to him at Dallas, South Dakota, or to the person who is placed in charge of the blanks at the towns named, after October 19. All blanks needed by persons who are not soldiers will be furnished by the officers in the towns named, who are authorized to administer oaths, and persons who are not soldiers will not be required to obtain blanks in advance.

Persons who are successful in this drawing will be permitted to make entry for one quarter section, or less under the homestead laws, at some date after March 1, 1909, and may obtain title by making the required residence and cultivation, and the payment of $6.00 an acre for all lands entered prior to June 1, 1909, or $4.50 an acre for lands entered under the President's proclamation after that date. One-fifth of the purchase money must be paid at the date of entry, and the remainder in five equal annual payments, without interest, or, if entireman chooses to do so, he can obtain title after fourteen months' actual residence and cultivation, by paying all of the deferred installments.

There are no settlements on any of these lands, and several townships are located in suitable places and reserved from homestead entry, before March 1, 1909.

Very respectfully,
FRED DENNETT,
Commissioner.

The Sign of Power.

It is the greatest manifestation of power to be calm. It is easy to be active. Let the reins go, and the horses will drag you down. Anyone can do that; but he who can stop the plunging horses is the strong man.
Which requires the greater strength—letting go, or restraining? The calm man is not the man who is dull. You must not mistake calmness for dullness or laziness. Activity is the manifestation of the lower strength, calmness of the superior strength.—Swami Vivekananda.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL
KILLED 11 CATTLE

Cows Belong to Christ Marty Near Monroe Struck by Train
In a Cut.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., Sept. 16.—Eleven
head of cattle belonging to Christ Marty, who lives at Browns siding on the Illinois Central road, six miles north of this city, were killed by an Illinois Central passenger train. Mr.
Marty was at the time, trying to drive the stock off the right-of-way but the animals were in a cut and his efforts to get them off the track were in-vain. Nine of the cattle were killed outright, several of them being thrown fifty feet from the track. Mr. Marty was warned the cattle were on the track by his son who aided him in trying to save the animals. Mr. Marty has been complaining to the railroad company about the poor condition of the fence bordering his land. Other farmers in the same vicinity have made similar complaints.

Milk contracts made by the Jordan
Condensed Milk company here average 10 cents lower for the next six months than did those of the same period a year ago. The average price that will be paid for milk is $1.40 as follows: October $1.30, November $1.45, December $1.50, January $1.45,
February $1.45, March $1.20.

The total enrollment of the local high school is 292, the greatest number ever enrolled at the school. Extra seats have been put in but there are four more students than seats at present. All the available space in the general assembly room will be occupied when the other school buildings of the city are crowded, the attendance being greater than in any previous year.

Fred C. Schmetz and Miss Eva North, both of this city, were married by the Rev. P. A. Schuh. They will reside in this city. Miss North is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael North, who moved to Monroe from Evansville three years ago.

Harry V. Bradford, of Freeport,
and Miss Ella Frederick, of Stockton,
Ill., were married here by the Rev.
J. H. Berkey.

The barn on George Roderick's
farm, in Clarno township, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. Fifty tons of hay and some expensive pieces of farm machinery were also destroyed. Julius Splinter, a farm hand, was badly stunned by the bolt and was unable to rise for several minutes. He was asleep, lying 200 feet from the barn, when the lightning struck.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Ladlow, and daughter, Miss Hattie Ladlow, and son Morton H. Ladlow, have returned home from a trip abroad. They made their return voyage on the Lusitania, landing in New York Friday morning.

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK
AT THE UNIVERSITY

Training Not to Begin Until After
Oct. 1—Many Prospective Players
Under the Classroom Ban—
Great Hopes of Coach Barry.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., Sept. 16.—Strict adherence to conference rules governing football will prevent the beginning of training at the University of Wisconsin until after October 1. The rules allow work to begin September 20,
but players must pay all their own expenses if they come prior to the opening of the school, and the Wisconsin authorities discourage the expenditure of any money by candidates for the football team by way of preliminary work. Therefore Director
P. Hutcheson has written to the leading candidates and publicly announced that the training will begin as soon after the first day of next month as practicable. This will give only ten days for preparation for the first of the five games on the budget schedule, that with the Lawrence university eleven at Madison October 10.
A week later Wisconsin plays the first hard game with Indiana, at Bloomington, so that fast work will be done by Coach Tom Barry in selecting his players. Then comes a period of two weeks to prepare for Marquette (Milwaukee) and in another week, at Minneapolis on November 7. Wisconsin will meet the "Gophers" in the hardest contest of the year. Two weeks follow in the early part of next month, when the teams are sured in the Minnesota game, and then Wisconsin will close the season
here with Chicago, November 21.

Really the first important event of the season here will not be the gathering of candidates for the deficiency examinations on October 2. In examining opportunity to players or prospective members of the team to "write off" their deficiencies in studies remaining from last year, the Wisconsin faculty has held out a little hope of salvation and has softened somewhat the hard ruling that some members of the football-phobia faction would like to maintain. Practically every good man in prospect for the Wisconsin first eleven this fall is under some classroom ban and will be giving opportunity to square himself in the examinations of October 2. Coach Tom Barry, however, is of the outlook of these examinations, says Director Hutcheson, "depends whenever hope we have of getting a strong team together."

Of last year's team, Wisconsin lost through graduation last June, P. A.
Dittman, tackle; L. H. Huntley, guard; Harry Heiler, and T. R. Division, guard; C. A. Schraibner, quarterback, and A. D. Whitmore, halfback. In the line there remain E. O.
27-um, P. J. Messner, John Murphy, P. E. Doyle and Robert Lukich. Back of the line there remain Captain Rogers, H. A. Parke, M. B. Lowman,
C. J. Cunningham, O. P. Osthoff, H.
Gilver, R. W. Muckelstone, E. H.
Whittaker and J. W. Wiley.

Much is expected of Tom Barry, the new coach, formerly star in the Brown University eleven. He is in Madison now practicing law and has given much time this summer to getting in touch with the situation and preparing in a general way for the work of the season. He will have material to make a light, fast, aggregation, but would prefer to get men that would average at least 180 pounds, for he is not laying great store by the supposition that the new rules give the lighter team a great advantage. He particularly wants weight in prospect of the Minnesota game, for the Gophers always have

WISCONSIN WEATHER

TAFT ADDRESSES COLORED PEOPLE

TELLS HIS SYMPATHY FOR THE RACE'S STRUGGLES.

CONDEMNS MOB VIOLENCE

Says Best Remedy is Improvement in Administration of Criminal Laws—Bryan Talks in New Jersey.

Cincinnati, Sept. 16.—William H. Taft declined to go farther with Mr. Bryan in a newspaper controversy over the issues of the campaign.

"There is nothing in Mr. Bryan's statement of Tuesday which seems to require an answer. Should it appear so later, I will take up the subject in my public speeches."

This was Mr. Taft's ultimatum, as he expressed a willingness that Mr. Bryan should have the last word of comment on President Roosevelt's Taft letter.

The gratification of Mr. Taft on the re-election of Gov. Hughes was expressed in a telegram he sent the governor congratulating him on his "well deserved nomination."

He added: "It not only makes the state of New York safe in November, but greatly strengthens the national ticket in every state in the union."

He expressed the hope that the governor would be able to give some of his time to the campaign in the west.

Has a Busy Birthday.

The fifty-first anniversary of Mr. Taft's birth proved to be the busiest day he has had since his arrival here a week ago. He delivered an address at night to an audience of innumerable persons at the Ohio conference of the African Methodist Episcopal church.

The address was not political, but gave a clear outline of the sympathetic understanding and feeling entertained for the struggles of the race possessed by the candidate.

Deplores Mob Violence.

On the subject of race prejudice and mob violence, Mr. Taft said:

"I don't know that the race bitterness is any stronger to-day than it ever was. For a length of time it seems to be altogether abated, and then there will be an outbreak, a mob will be formed, developing the most fiendish cruelty, manifesting itself in the blindest and most unaccountable assaults upon perfectly innocent people, simply because of their color. It is only fair to say that such brutal exhibitions are not confined to any one section."

"It is impossible to read accounts of this sort without having one's blood boil with indignation that there can be savagery in the human breast such a savage and beastly impulse and motive. But we must remember two things; first, that in spite of our education and refinement and progress toward Christian ideals, we still retain in our nature a great deal of the original animal, and second, that the spirit of a mob seems to be a different spirit from that of the individuals making it up, and to disclose a more inhuman and inhuman state of impulses than it would be possible to find in any one of its members."

"The best remedy and the necessary one, is an improvement in the administration of our criminal laws; and the holding to strict account the officers of the law who do not use all possible means to prevent and suppress such outbreaks."

Bryan in New Jersey.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 16.—Pouring hot shot into Mr. Taft and the Republican party at every point where he stopped, William H. Bryan Tuesday night, in this city, concluded a strenuous day of campaigning in New Jersey, following a few hours in Philadelphia, where in front of a newspaper office and before an enthusiastic throng he arraigned the Republican organization of that city.

Mr. Bryan left on a late train for Rochester, traveling via Jersey City, where he made a brief stop in the morning.

St. Louis, Sept. 16.—Umpire Jack Sheridan of the American baseball league was attacked by angry baseball enthusiasts as he was leaving the American League park here Tuesday afternoon. One of the men struck Sheridan, who protected himself as best he could until the police dispersed the crowd.

SIX KILLED IN EXPLOSION

CAR OF BLACK POWDER BLOWN UP AT WINDSOR, MO.

Thirty Persons Injured, Four Probably Fatally—Terrible Dynamite and Doller Blasts Elsewhere.

Sedalia, Mo., Sept. 16.—Six persons were killed and 30 injured, four of whom are not expected to live, as the result of an explosion of a car of black powder at Windsor, near here, at 10:15 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The explosion was caused by John Wesley, a negro, who threw a lighted match into a pile of powder which had spilled from a broken keg of the explosive. For his prank Wesley paid the penalty with his life, his body being horribly mutilated. A list of the dead and injured follows:

Dead—John Wesley, negro who caused explosion; James McCabe, brakeman, Sedalia, Mo.; Henry Gravestone, residence unknown; Ed Davis, negro; two unidentified white men.

Injured, not expected to live—A. F. Horschberger, conductor, severely burned on hands and head; J. G. Wall, drayman, Windsor; R. A. Matone, coal miner, Windsor; Charles Walker, negro, Windsor.

Galeana, Kan., Sept. 16.—The premature explosion of 40 sticks of dynamite here Tuesday resulted in the instant death of James Mitchell and William Murphy, zinc miners.

GOMPERS IS TURNED DOWN.

Utah Federation of Labor Declines to Indorse Bryan Circular.

Ogden, Utah, Sept. 16.—The Utah Federation of Labor, in session here, through a special committee Tuesday failed to indorse the circular from the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor, urging support of Bryan, and advised that the local unions be allowed to act without instructions from the state organization. The report of the committee was unanimously adopted. Much opposition to committing the unions to an espousal of the cause of any one party was manifested among the delegates in attendance, and the action taken is looked upon as a compromise with the element opposed to mixing politics and unionism.

The resolutions submitted, however, endorse Samuel Gompers and "denounce as unwarranted and unjust the efforts being made to discredit the matchless leader, who has devoted his best endeavors in behalf of all who toil, regardless of class or creed."

TELL OF BALLARD'S MURDER.

Daughter and Widow Testify in Trial
of Joe James.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 16.—The state's case is practically concluded in the murder trial of Joe James, colored, charged with having stabbed C. A. Ballard to death. Blanche Ballard, daughter of the murdered man, testified Tuesday that James crept into her room, approached her bed and took hold of her hand. She screamed. Her father awoke and drove the intruder from the house. Mrs. Ballard testified that her husband went out on the porch, that James rushed at him and plunged a knife into his right lung. James was placed on the stand Wednesday.

Sheriff Warner received a "black hand" letter threatening the officers if James is not hanged. At the bottom of the letter was a skull and crossbones and a declaration that "the niggers must go."

RUSSIAN PLOT FOILED.

Many Arrests Made and Bombs and Dynamite Seized.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 16.—The police made 85 arrests Tuesday in St. Petersburg and seized a large quantity of bombs and dynamite in addition to documents indicating that the social revolutionist organization had planned a revival of terroristic activity in the capital. Among those arrested were 25 workmen belonging to the railway league. The others are of the educated classes, the majority of them being students, including several women.

Kaiser Avoided Bombs.

Paris, Sept. 16.—A dispatch from Mulhausen, Alsace-Lorraine, says that the real reason of the German emperor's sudden abandonment of his excursion into French territory a few days ago, was, according to the police, the presence of French anarchists in the district which the emperor proposed to visit. At the last moment the police learned that two French anarchists had gone to the frontier with bombs.

Alleged Swindler Arrested.

Poorin, Ill., Sept. 16.—Two years ago a bogus firm, Martin & Co., worked a confidence game on Wisconsin and central Illinois dairymen, taking their cheese to the extent of $10,000 and failing to make returns for it. PEACE FLAG FOR GERMANS

PRESENTED BY BARTHOLOMTY TO REICHSTAG DELEGATION.

American Calls Gift Visible Prophecy
of Lasting Peace Between the Two Countries.

Berlin, Sept. 16.—Representative Richard Bartholdt, president of the American group of the Interparliamentary Union, in behalf of the American delegation presented a peace flag to the German group at a public meeting held in the Reichstag building Tuesday night.

In making the presentation, Mr. Bartholdt referred to the origin of the movement that brought him to Germany, and the existing cordial relations between Germany and the United States. He said the giving of the flag to the arbitration group of the Reichstag was a visible sign of the esteem and friendship of the American group, and a prophecy of lasting peace between the two countries.

"With devout satisfaction we can assert to-day," he declared, "that actual conditions fully justify this hope."

Continuing, the speaker dwelt upon the ties of blood uniting the two countries through the German emigration, and declared that the conclusion of an arbitration treaty between Germany and America was only a question of time.

Prof. Richard Eickhoff, chairman of the Reichstag delegation, accepted the flag with reciprocal expression of good will.

The flag is composed of the German imperial colors set with a broad white border and trimmed with gold. Upon it, lettered in gold, are the words "Peace on Earth."

Banker and Noted Philanthropist Passes Away in New York.

New York, Sept. 16.—Giovanni P. Morosini, banker and noted philanthropist, died suddenly Tuesday of heart failure at his country place, Riverdale, in the upper section of the city.

Mr. Morosini, who was 74 years old, is survived by a son and two daughters. His wife died in 1893. Mrs. Victoria Morosini Schilling, his youngest daughter, created a sensation a few years ago by eloping with the family coachman, and the aged banker disapproved her. Miss Gloria Morosini, the other daughter, is a noted horsewoman. Otto P. Morosini, the son, married Mary Bond, a Virginia belle.

INDIAN LAD RUNS AMUCK.

Kills Little Girl and Rides Away to the Hills.

Durango, Col., Sept. 16.—Frank Howe, a 16-year-old Indian boy, got possession of a revolver Tuesday and, riding through the streets of Pagosa Junction at break-neck speed, shot and killed Anne Baker, the four-year-old daughter of James Baker, a member of the Ute tribe. The lad continued on his wild dash to the hills and disappeared.

No explanation can be made of the boy's act except that he was seized with a savage impulse to kill.

Rejected Suitor Stabs Groom.

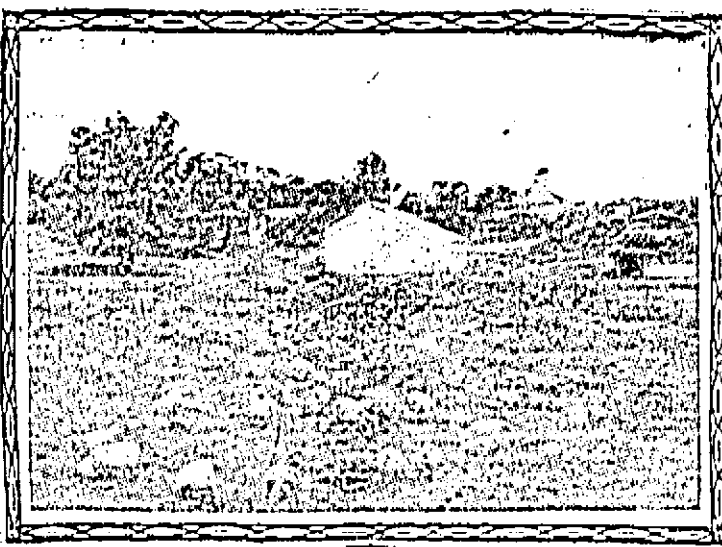

New York, Sept. 16.—While on his way home from a wedding supper with his bride of a few hours late Tuesday night, John H. Rutanito, 24 years old, was attacked and stabbed six times about the head and shoulders. He is dying in the Harlem hospital. The bride says a man who once asked her to marry him made the attack.

Des Moines Ousts Social Evil.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 16.—A city without a "red light" district, Des Moines now faces the world, the only city of more than 75,000 population that can make that boast. The order doing away with segregated vice went into effect at midnight and the tenderloin is a thing of the past.

King Alfonso Wins a Race.

San Sebastian, Spain, Sept. 16.—The cutter Corso, steered by King Alfonso, Tuesday won the Royal club regatta.

THE FARMER GOVERNOR OF OHIO, ANDREW L. HARRIS, AND HIS FARM.

Columbus, Ohio.—The Ohio gubernatorial fight is on. The present incumbent, Andrew L. Harris, has been nominated by the republican party to succeed himself, and he is opposed by Judson Harmon, in the democratic field. Both men are strong politically, and one of the keenest state fights in the Union will be continued until election.

Governor Harris, known as the "farmer governor," is one of the most unique characters to be found in the political life of America. He is the only governor who is a Civil war veteran. Practically all his life has been spent in the service of his country. He entered the Union army as a volunteer at the age of 25, and was promoted upon his merit through all grades to and including brigadier general.

At the close of the war he was admitted to the bar and at once elected to the state senate. Until 1892 he was almost continuously before the public in some trusted position. He was sent to the house of representatives and was probate judge for a time. In 1898, he was elected lieutenant governor of Ohio and two years ago was made governor. Mr. Harris is now out for a second term, and is stronger than ever.

An incident very typical of the farmer governor was that surrounding the announcement of his election two years ago. He was then lieutenant governor, having been elected by almost 30,000 plurality. Mr. Harris was found in the rear of the farm building to build a new foundation for his barn. He was dressed in overalls and when the committee rushed to him he walked with them to the front of the house and was sworn in just as he was, the family Bible being used to swear by. When asked if he would go immediately to Columbus to assume the duties of his office he replied that he wanted the foundation of his barn done just right, and that he guessed he'd have to stay at home to superintend the job himself. And he did so.

Governor Harris is a total abstainer. He is also an advocate of temperance laws. In all the years he was in the legislature he voted for every temperance measure that came up, and in his last message to the legislature in April, 1908, he strongly advocated the passage of a local option bill. This legislature took him at his word and passed it.

Governor Harris is leading his campaign this fall carrying a temperance banner, and he expects that "with this sign thou shalt win." He is a hard worker, and it is no unusual sight for the night watchman at the state house to see him walk in his office at 6 a. m. He works all the morning and at noon rushes across the street to a dairy ranch house, where he calls for a lunch sandwich, a cup of coffee and a piece of pumpkin pie. No one ever thinks of finding Governor Harris at a club room unless he is invited to speak.

The governor is well along in years, and if elected this fall for another term it is sure to be his last appearance for public honors. No one will be more happy than his charming wife, who longs for the day when the people will give up her husband to her, and they can live the life of simplicity on their beautiful farm.

THE WORLD'S TIMBER SUPPLY

How people have the slightest conception just how important a part timber and manufactured wood play in the trade between the world's great nations, and doubtless it is news to many to learn that the lumber imports of the various countries amount to $285,000,000. This is according to estimates for the whole world compiled by Dr. Ernest Friedrich, of the German commercial high school at Leipzig.

Notwithstanding the fact that it finds its own supply dwindling, the United States furnishes about 20 per cent of the lumber imported by other countries. Austria-Hungary furnishes 19 per cent, Russia 16 per cent, Canada 13 per cent, Sweden 18 per cent, Finland 10 per cent, and Norway and Denmark a small quantity.

The countries importing wood are those on the highest economical plane, which were themselves in earlier times densely wooded, but whose forests have been denuded to a greater or less extent to make room for agriculture and other industries, says Vice-Consul James L. A. Burrell of Madagascar in a report to this government. Only 4 per cent of the territory of Great Britain is covered with forests, and during the year 1906 that country imported lumber to the value of $135,551,750. Germany has still 25 per cent of its territory covered by forests, but imported in 1906 lumber valued at $41,235,000. Belgium and the Netherlands, that have but 8 per cent forest lands, Denmark, that has 7 per cent, France and Switzerland, with a small percentage, are all compelled to import lumber.

EMERGENCY CURRENCY

With half a billion of surplus currency in government vaults, ready for distribution on demand, there is but little chance for another money panic. The influence of this liberal surplus, on the people at large, is the same as the confidence inspired by a timid depositor when he finds that his local banker has plenty of money, and is prepared to pay on demand at any time.

The much discussed Freedman currency bill may be called a makeshift, but it will be found equal for all requirements for years to come. There is money enough in the country for all legitimate requirements, when kept in circulation, and loss of confidence is the only thing that drives it into retirement.

The banks of the country, both national and private, are well conducted, and the loss to depositors, during the past decade, has been so insignificant that it is hardly worth considering. A fraction of one per cent would cover these losses, while the money invested in goldbrick schemes of various kinds represents many millions every year.

The average citizen needs a guaranty more than he needs a government guarantee on his bank deposit, and no one knows this better than Mr. Bryan.

With liabilities of more than seven million dollars in sight, and more in prospect, the A. Booth & Co. preferred stock has dropped from 28 to 13 cents. This heavy failure indicates that the business had been running itself for many months, enjoying the benefits of long-established reputation. Some of the best banks in the country are among the largest creditors.

Bert M. Fernald, the newly elected republican governor of Maine, is a successful farmer who graduated from the country school at the age of 13. He is a well-informed gentleman of culture and refinement, enjoying the confidence of a large constituency, and his administration promises to be practical and wholesome.

The renomination of Governor Hughes of New York, is a victory for the national administration and for decent politics in the Empire state. Hughes is a cold-blooded proposition, and very unpopular with leaders of the party, but he is honest and fearless.

Government statistics recently compiled, show that the country produced in 1907, 42,000,000 tons of sand and gravel, valued at $15,000,000. This is comparatively a new industry and yet in its infancy. Janesville is fortunate in being well represented.

The railroads of the country are again busy and idle men and cars are fast finding employment. With an easy money market the work of extensions and betterments will be resumed, and the year 1909 should find the nation prosperous.

The sugar beet crop is standing the drought well, and the hot weather is adding to the richness of the product.

Madison Democrat: Alas! Poor Bryan. With but $150,000, he has taken ten long years to make it too. This commoner business can never prove alluring enough to invite monopolization till it pays better.

Most of 'Em Don't Count

Oshkosh Northwestern: Probably not one man in fifty can recall the names of the seven presidential nominees this year. And a much smaller proportion of the voters, of course, will be able to name their running mates.

Now for Alrath Straphanger!

Chicago Record-Herald: Orville Wright announces that it is possible to construct an aeroplane which will carry seven people. It will not be long before our aeroplanes will be equipped with straps for the accommodation of people who cannot obtain seats.

Democracy's Stock Argument

Milwaukee News: The ignominious failure of the republican politicians in office and seeking office to make it rain when rain has been so badly needed will not help them when they begin to brag about what they have done for the farmers.

Gravely Wrong.

Stanley Republican: The beauties of the primary law were again exemplified in Iron county, where a man who never pretended to be anything but a born and bred democrat declared himself a candidate for district attorney on the republican ticket and received the nomination.

There Will be no Fight, Madison Journal: Under the law it has been decided. There is no alternative except that decision. Senator Stephenson has been fairly nominated under the law, and he is entitled to receive the vote of every republican member of the legislature, and in all human probability he will.

The Stuff

Neenah Times: The truth is plain, that the primary election law should not be tinkered with or amended. Let the law be kept in force until the people become utterly weary of it; then let it be repealed and return to the good old days of regular party caucuses and conventions. That's the stuff.

Has It All Figured Out

El Paso Herald: The Wright aeroplane has proved successful enough so that within a few years practical flying machines for use as a toy and for sport will be in the market. The cost of construction will be comparatively light, a few thousand dollars, and the main cost will be for the patents and the manufacturing monopoly. It will take much skill to operate the machines, and consequently danger will threaten novices, though possibly more danger to the machine than to the driver, if the flight be low down.

Condemned by the Title

Beloit News: We are glad to see that the dramatic critic of a great paper like the Chicago Tribune has the courage to come out and openly condemn such exhibitions of indecency and such plays as "The Devil." It is a beautiful sign and is sorely needed in these days when the suggestive is considered almost essential to make a theatrical production a success. What we need is less of such plays and more of those like "The Servant in the House" or of the type produced by the late Dennison Thompson. To be sure there are scores of decent plays, but there ought to be far fewer of the other kind.

Good Man in His Place.

Green Bay Gazette: Comparing Bryan with Taft, Senator Beveridge says: "Bryan never handled a single foreign problem. He has governed no Philippines, regenerated no Cuba, built no canal, avoided no alien danger and saved us from no threatened peril. In domestic affairs Bryan has not written one law, administered not a single department, advised no president. While he is a man of a prophet of righteousness, but not an administrator of affairs. Bryan is an Aaron not a Moses, a Henry but not a Washington, a Wendell Phillips but not an Abraham Lincoln."

This appears to define Bryan without disparaging him, to set forth his position without casting aspersions on his character, to hold him up for inspection without trying to blind the eyes of those who may be called on to inspect. All in all it is a neat little word portrait of the distinguished Nebraskan and is an aid in further building up the sentiment so generally expressed and to the effect that Bryan is a powerful man for good in his place, but that his place never has been and never can be at the head of affairs in this government.

A MODERN SIDNEY.

"Never mind me, I'm all right. Look after the other fellows."

The foregoing is the simple but significant epitaph on the monument recently erected to Midshipman James Crouse in Arlington cemetery, Washington.

It tells in a graphic way the story of the noble sacrifice of a lad of the American navy only a little over nineteen years of age.

The boy died from injuries received in an explosion in the turret of the battleship Georgia while at target practice on Cape Cod bay.

If you will go to the files of the newspapers you will find these particulars:

"The gallant Crouse was at one of the guns in the turret. His classmate and comrade, Midshipman Goldthwaite, served another gun. The latter died from his injuries inside of two hours. Crouse was frightfully wounded, besides being badly burned. He got out of the turret. Hearing cries for help, he put himself to the test. He took hold and helped to care for the injured seaman. While doing so some one called attention to his own deplorable condition. It was then he uttered the words inscribed on his monument:

"Never mind me, I'm all right. Look after the other fellows."

He was afterwards taken to the hospital, where he died unflinchingly.

And that is all.

At least that is all the newspapers tell about Crouse and what he did.

But that is not all that is worth saying. Because—

An act of heroic self-abnegation like this one seems greater than any sermon, grander than any poem, finer than any lofty strain of music, more than any great work of art.

IT IS DIVINITY REVEALING ITSELF IN HUMAN FLESH—the highest expression known to humans.

One thinks of the dying Sidney and how he pushed the cup of water from his own parched lips when he said: "Give it to him. His need is greater than mine."

The strapping Crouse was kin of soul to Sidney and to all the heroic souls of history.

And yet—

After you have said all this—and justly—the only concept of the character of James Thomas Crouse, midshipman, is to be found in the simple act and the sentiment. It is all there—on the monument.

TEMPEST IN TEAPOT OVER VAUGHAN PLAY

Col. Hannan, erstwhile Advance Agent of "A Woman of the West," Proves Himself Pastmaster of Publicity Promoting.

In the controversy which is now raging in the correspondence columns of the Milwaukee newspapers regarding Father L. J. Vaughan's play, "A Woman of the West," which appeared here Saturday and was again presented to a packed house Monday evening, many will discern the hand of Col. John Hannan, private secretary to Senator La Follette and erstwhile advance agent of the production. Col. Hannan, who here a fortnight ago, stated that he was going ahead of the play for a week or two only, just as a diversion and to help out the playwright who happens to be a personal friend. He preposterously resigned his post last Sunday at Eau Claire (where the play is to be presented on Saturday of this week) "realizing the storm that was brewing," and returned to Milwaukee.

Portents of "Storm"

There seems to have been just enough basis of fact in the supposed signs and portents of a "storm" to make the story plausible. According to Tuesday's issue the Eau Claire Leader, Father Dunne, at the 8 o'clock mass at St. Patrick's church Sunday morning, read extracts from a letter written by the Rev. Bishop James Schwegelch of La Crosse, president of the diocese, which caused a mild sensation. One of them was:

"If that scene of the mass is still retained in the play, I am most emphatically opposed to it." Another:

"Rev. Vaughan wrote me under date of August 1st, 'The truth is the play was not produced by Father Vaughan, nor is it presented as the work of Father Vaughan.' I shall write him that he must prevent its presentation at Eau Claire if he can do so."

With this working base, the correspondents have managed to work out the following for metropolitan newspaper consumption:

"Feeling Runs High"

"Feeling runs high in this city with the Catholic congregation divided. While a large number believe that the mandate of the bishop who has written a personal letter to Father Dunne in this matter should be strictly obeyed, and the play if produced not patronized, there are many others who out of warm friendship toward Father Vaughan profess to see nothing wrong in a stage reproduction of the mass satisfied that Father Dunne's former assistant has handled the subject reverently. These, of course, take little stock in the announcement that Father Vaughan is not the author of the play. As a matter of fact there are many who declare that of their own knowledge they know that he wrote much of this play here while filling the assistant role and that at the time he was engaged also as another play."

Further Vaughan was an actor before being ordained a priest, and it was well following his earlier calling that he gained the necessary technique of the theater. His friends doubt that he wrote Bishop Schwegelch that he wrote Bishop Schwegelch that he wrote the play's author. While of late Father Vaughan is said to have been making his home in Janesville he continues to take an interest in Eau Claire affairs where he owns considerable property. He still supports Altoona Institute."

Now Comes the Denial

Eau Claire, Wis., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—In an emphatic message to Col. Aldrich today Father Vaughan, author of "A Woman of the West," the drama which has aroused Roman Catholics of this diocese on account of the celebration of the mass repudiates the statement purported to have been made by Bishop Schwegelch that the former assistant rector of the Eau Claire church is not the author of the play. Father Vaughan's message is as follows:

"Any person saying that I have repudiated the authorship of 'A Woman of the West,' is guilty of a deliberate falsehood."

Col. Aldrich and Mr. Kennedy, present owners of the play, charge that the play is at the bottom of the present demonstration against the play and declare that those who actively in denunciation have never seen the play presented on the stage.

Mr. Waggoner has written Archbishop Quigley of Chicago, and it is understood has also sent him a copy of the manuscript. Another copy is said to have been sent to Archbishop Messersmith at Milwaukee for his comment, but no word from either of these prelates has been received.

Takes No Drastic Steps

La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—That he has taken no definite action in regard to the play "A Woman of the West," reputed to have been written by the Rev. Father Vaughan was the statement of the Rt. Rev. James Schwegelch, bishop of La Crosse, tonight.

He is making an investigation of the matter but deprecates the idea that he has taken any drastic steps or is even likely to do so. The bishop said he had written to the Rev. A. R. C. Dunn, pastor of the Roman Catholic church at Eau Claire requesting him to make a report on just what the play contains.

"I have taken no steps to prevent the production of the play, but may have something to say later," he said regarding the report that Father Vaughan is the author of the play. "I have a letter from him stating that he has nothing to do with its production and I have so advised Father Dunn."

Denial by Bishop

La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 15.—That he has not tried to stop the play, "The Women of the West," alleged to have been written by Rev. Vaughan, a Catholic priest, because it contained a reproduction of the Catholic mass, is the statement made by Rt. Rev. James Schwegelch of the La Crosse diocese under whose dominion Rev. Vaughan was, with given leave of absence to follow the lecture platform. The bishop announced that he has as yet taken no steps to stop the presentation of the play but may have something more definite to say later on. In a letter received by the bishop from Father Vaughan the latter announced that he had nothing to do with the production of the play. It is understood that Bishop Schwegelch strongly opposes that the mass should be made a public spectacle on a stage.

Beginning at 8:30 this morning the annual school board convention for the second superintendent district of Rock county was held in the gymnasium of the high school. Wood was to have spoken but was unable to be present on account of sickness and his place was taken by Mr. Carey, state superintendent of education. J. A. Hazelwood, formerly superintendent of schools in Jefferson county and one of the men who was chiefly influential in getting the late law passed which provides for state aid for the schools, discussed School Legislation Needed in the Future. President Albert Sallabury of the Whitewater Normal school delivered an able address on The Official Duties of School Boards. Superintendent A. J. Thorne of Jefferson county was also present and spoke to the convention as well as a number of others.

There are about two hundred members of the school board in the second district of the county and over a hundred attended today's meeting. Clerks of the school districts are required to attend by law and all other members are expected to attend. Members are allowed $2 a day and mileage.

FINALS FOR MORGAN CUP NEXT TUESDAY

Protests in MacLean-Tallman Match Caused Some Excitement at the Golf Links Yesterday.

Plans for the Morgan golf trophy will be played over the private course on the Morgan farm, near Beloit, next Tuesday. The trophy is a handsome solid silver cup valued at $100 and will be kept by the Golf club, the winners of the handicap tournament each year to have their names engraved thereon and to receive a medal. In the preliminaries the first of this week J. L. Wilcox won from Al Schaller, MacLean defeated Carter, Tallman vanquished Edward Hammann, Elford won from Valentin; McGiffin defeated Gage; Burman was victorious over Brownell; Fred Schaller bested Chester Morse; and Harris put Wheeler out of the running. In the next round of play MacLean defeated Wilcox; Tallman won from Elford, and McGiffin won from Burman. Schaller and Harris have yet to play their match. C. G. MacLean and Stanley Tallman played off their match in the semi-finals yesterday, MacLean winning 2 up. Each entered a vigorous protest, Tallman claiming that MacLean violated the rules by removing a small pebble that lay behind his ball near the bunk or which protects the second hole, and MacLean charging that Tallman accepted advice from Al Schaller and changed his club at a critical juncture. McGiffin will play the winner of the Schaller-Harris match and whoever comes out best will meet MacLean in the final over the Morgan course.

Putting Matches.
In the ladies' putting contest for the Valentin medal Mrs. E. P. Daly won from Miss Daisy MacLean; Mrs. H. G. Carter defeated Mrs. Frank P. Elford; and Miss Isabel Smith was victorious in her match with Mrs. C. S. Putnam. A large number of ladies witnessed the contests and 30 members of the organization attended the weekly club dinner.

Dance in the Evening.
The seventeenth weekly dance was also well attended and Carter's orchestra played a splendid program. Among the out-of-town visitors present were Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, Mrs. and Fred Smith, and Miss Harold Emerson of Chicago; Miss Smith of Low Angeles, and Miss Glenn Emerson of Mendocino, Mich.

The dinner was in charge of the Beloit druggists. This afternoon, after a business meeting, was spent in games and a good social time.

Large Attendance: The attendance at the high school to date is 395. This is larger than at any corresponding date last year and new pupils are coming in daily. The attendance this year will reach considerably above four hundred.

Tall Popcorn: Fred Blahdler of 306 Glen street has grown in a plot of popcorn which he planted, a stalk which is eleven feet in length and has an ear eight inches long. Each of the joints of the stalk are a foot apart. The whole plot of the corn is over ten feet high.

RICHARD VALENTINE IN NORTHERN WOODS

Camp on Turtle River, Nine Miles from Mercer, Was All But Destroyed by the Forest Fires.

Only a fortunate change of the wind prevented the forest fires in Iron county from destroying the camp on the Turtle river, nine miles from the town of Mercer, where Richard Valentine has been spending his annual summer vacation. In a letter to his Janesville relatives he says that the woods were ablaze within 100 rods of the place; that the smoke was so dense at times as to almost suffocate; and that on two different occasions he and his guide had their campfire paraphernalia packed and ready to move into the river. When the opportunity offered they made good their escape out of the burned district. The worst is now over in the Ashland region, though fires are still smoldering in many localities.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS

How the husband would swear if he had to do the baking these hot days. How long would he wait before he came down to the Sheldon Hardware Company's store and bought a bread maker? He would come on the double jump as soon as he saw the first advertisement.
Some of the skeptical ladies of this community are still waiting until their husbands force them to adopt the "Universal" on account of the economy of the thing and on account of the more sanitary nature of it.

Some have never seen it and of course don't believe it will do the work. That is why Miss Parcel is here. She's from Missouri herself. Come along all of you.

FORTY YEARS AGO

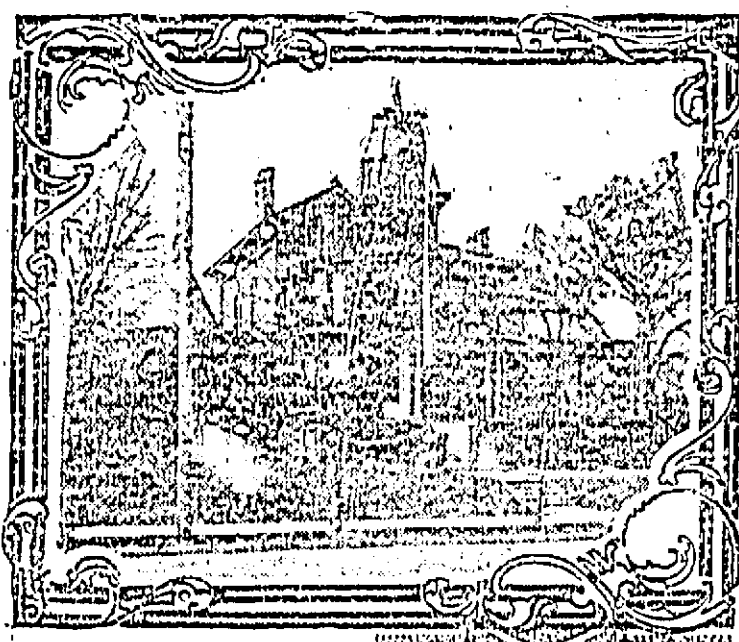

Janesville Daily Gazette, Sept. 16, 1868.—Rock County Fair.—The Rock County Fair this year may be set down as a decided success. Today, the attendance at the grounds was very large, notwithstanding the fact that it was very cold for the season. The number of entries has been very creditable. There were four hundred up to four o'clock yesterday afternoon, and there have been a great many since. In the branch of the exhibition containing the horse and cattle there was an exceedingly good representation. There was nothing among the horses that would rank as "first stock," but a great deal was shown of such as should be called out by a fair of this kind. Of cattle there were some fine specimens of blooded and grade animals. In the sheep and hog exhibition the showing was somewhat meagre as compared with what Rock County is able to do. There were, however, some noticeable specimens of each. More than usual interest seemed to have been manifested in the fowl department and we observed several varieties of hens, turkeys and ducks and geese. The show of machinery, particularly in that pertaining to harvesting in the fall, in the department of farm products, the most that can be grown have been set forth. All of the other departments also have exceedingly fine displays.

Serious Accident.—We regret to learn that one of the Smith Bros.

grocers, while endeavoring to get the reins away from a drunken driver was kicked in the face by a vicious horse and quite seriously injured. He was carried insensible into Cowell's drug store, and after being partially restored, taken home. He was quite comfortable this morning.

Murderous Assault and Robbery.—Last evening, Wm. Grimes of the town of Avon was knocked down on Pleasant street and robbed of $15, all the money he had, remaining insensible until this morning. Henry Sholly, who happened to be returning home at the time, heard the cry of "Murder" and, hastening to the spot, saw two men going away from there who told him that it was only a man drunk. On examination he found that the man had been struck with a stone upon the side of the head, making a frightful gash and other severe bruises on his face.

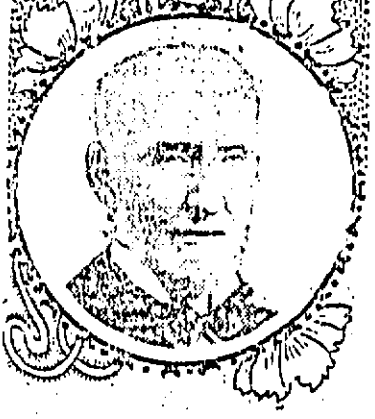

A Night prowler.—Last night, about 11 o'clock, a ruffian, pretending to be drunk, took possession of the back part of Mr. Goodrich's house on South Jackson street and City Marshall Hill was called to take care of him. He pretended to be heavily drunk until all of a sudden he broke loose, and started to run, but was soon brought down by the butt-end of the Marshall's cane striking him in the head. He was placed in a passing bus and conveyed to the jail.

LITTLE JOURNEYS TO THE SUMMER HOMES OF PROMINENT MEN—"UNCLE JOE" CANNON AND HIS DANVILLE RESIDENCE.

Danville, Ill.—The "Babe of Danville," as Uncle Joe is called, has little time to enjoy a summer vacation. Being away so much of the year he has no summer home, but is only too glad to spend a few quiet weeks in his Danville residence. His home is located in one of the most beautiful parts of the city and is estimated to have cost about $18,000. The house is large and roomy and substantial in appearance. An atmosphere pervades the house of domestic simplicity, which is typical of the speaker of the house of representatives.

Uncle Joe has made more enemies in his political career than he usually attracts, but he has made him so many warm friends.

most effective pitchers in the National league. The Giant leaders realize that upon him alone depends their chances for the pennant. It is rumored that during the balance of the season Mathewson is to pitch four games a week, which is an unprecedented strain, and many doubt if anyone can stand up under it. Mathewson volunteered to do this in his enthusiasm to win the flag for the Giants.

CHAPTER VIII. Dance of the Hours.

Four p. m.

The old clock in a corner of the study chimed resonantly and with deliberation; four double strokes; and while yet the deep-throated music was dying into silence the telephone bell shrieked imperiously.

Maitland hid savagely on the rug and knotted his brows, trying to hear it. The effect was that of a coarse file rasped across raw quivering nerves. And he lay helpless, able to do no more toward endurance than to dig nails deep into his palms.

Again and again the floodish clamor shattered the echoes. Blinding flashes of agony danced down the white-hot wires strung through his head, tant from temple to temple.

Would the fool at the other end never be satisfied that he could get no answer? Evidently not; the racket continued mercilessly, short series of shrill calls alternating with imperative rolls prolonged until one thought that the tortured metal sounding-cups would crack. Thought! nay, prayed that either such would be the case, or else that one's head might at once mercifully be rent asunder.

That anguish so exquisite should be the means of releasing him from his bonds seemed a refinement of irony. Yet Maitland was aware, between spasms, that help was on the way. The telephone instrument, for obvious convenience, had been equipped with an extension bell which rang simultaneously in O'Hagan's quarters. When Maitland was not at home the janitor-valet, so warned, would answer the calls. And now, in the still intervals, the heavy thud of hurried feet could be heard upon the staircase. O'Hagan was coming to answer; and taking his time about it. It seemed an age before the rattle of pass-key in latch announced him; and another ere, all unconscious of the figure supine on the divan against the further study wall, the old man shuffled to the instrument, lifted receiver from the hook, and applied it to his ear.

"Well, well?" he demanded with that impatience characteristic of the millionaire for modern methods of communication. "What the devil ails ye?"

"Rayapleto to ye, m'um, and 'tis sorry I am I didn't know 'twas a jolly."

"It's not."

"Was o'clock, there or thereabouts?"

"Faith, and he didn't say."

"What name will I be tellin' him?"

"Kape it to yourself, thin. 'Tis none of me business."

"If ye do, I'll not answer. Sure, am I to be clinkin' two flights up stairs ivry fovee minute?"

"Goodby ye, m'um, and 'tis sorry I am I didn't know 'twas a jolly."

and blinding "his captive. However that was, there was no denying that he had trailed the treasure to its hiding place, unerringly; and succeeded in taking possession of it with consummate skill and audacity. When Maitland came to think of it, he recalled distinctly the trend of the burglar's indignation in the character of "Mr. Snail," which had all been calculated to discover the location of the jewels. And, when he did recall this fact, and how easily he had been duped, Maitland could have ground his teeth in melodramatic rage—but for the circumstance that when first it occurred to him, such a feat was a physical impossibility, and even when engaged the operation would have been painful to an extreme.

Slipping the grateful drink which O'Hagan presently brought him, the young man pondered the case; with no pleasure in the prospect he foresaw. If Higgins had actually communicated the fact of Anstey's escape to the police, the entire affair was likely to come out in the papers—all of it, that is, that he could not suppress. But even figuring that he could silence Higgins and O'Hagan—no difficult task—though he might be somewhat late with Higgins—the most discreet imaginable explanation of his extraordinary conduct would make him the laughing stock of his circle of friends, to say nothing of a city that had been accustomed to speak of him as "Mad Maitland" for many a day. Unless—

Ah, he had it! He could pretend (so long as it suited his purpose, at all events), to have been the man caught and left bound in Higgins' care. Simple enough. The knocking over of the butler would be ascribed to a natural ebullition of indignation, the subsequent flight to a harebrained notion of running down the thief. And yet even that explanation had its difficulties. How was he to account for the fact that he had failed to communicate with the police—knowing that his treasure had been ravished?

It was all very involved. Mr. Maitland returned the glass to O'Hagan and, cradling his head in his hands, racked his brains in vain for a satisfactory tale to tell. There were so many things to be taken into consideration. There was the girl in gray.

Not that he had forgotten her for an instant; his fury raged but the higher at the thought that Anstey's interference had prevented his (Maitland's) keeping the engagement. Doubtless the girl had waited, then gone away in anger, believing that the man in whom she had placed faith had proved himself unworthy. And so he had lost her for ever, in all likelihood; they would never meet again.

But that telephone call?

"O'Hagan," demanded the haggard and distraught young man, "who was that on the wire just now?"

Being a thoroughly trained servant, O'Hagan had waited that question in silence, acquiescent with impatience though he was. Now, his tongue unloosed, his words fairly stumbled on one another's heels in his anxiety to get them out in the least possible time.

"Sure, m'um, 'twas a jolly, sor, be the 'vies av hor, askin' were ye in, and meself havin' seen ye go out no longer ago thin was o'clock and yerelf anyin' not a worried about comin' back at all at all, what was I to be tellin' her, even if ye were lyin' there on the divan all unbeknownst to me, which the kuno meself can not—"

"Help!" pleaded the young man feebly, smiling. "One thing at a time, please, O'Hagan. Answer me one question: Did she give a name?"

"She did not, sor, though meself—"

"There, there! Wait a bit. I want to think."

Of course she had given no name; it wouldn't be like her. What was he thinking of, anyway? It could not have been the gray girl; for she knew him only as Anstey; she could never have thought him himself, Maitland, but what other woman of his acquaintance did not believe him to be out of town?

With a hopeless gesture, Maitland gave it up, conceding the mystery too deep for him, his intellect too feeble to grapple with all its infinite ramifications. The counsel he had given O'Hagan seemed most appropriate to his "present needs." One thing at a time. And obviously the first thing that lay to his hand was the silencing of O'Hagan.

Maitland rallied his wits to the task. "O'Hagan," said he, "this man, Snail, who was here this afternoon, called himself a detective. As soon as we were alone he rapped me over the head with a loaded cane, and, I suspect, went through the flat stealing everything he could lay hands on. I found me my cigarette case, please."

"'Tis gone, sor—'tis not on the desk, at least, where I saw it last."

"Ah! You see? Now for reasons of my own, which I won't enter into, I don't want the affair to get out and become public. You understand? I want you to keep your mouth shut, until I give you permission to open it."

"Very good, sor." The janitor-valet had previous experience with Maitland's generosity in grateful memory; and shut his lips tightly in promise of virtuous reticence.

"You won't regret it. Now tell me what you mean by saying that you saw me go out at one this afternoon?"

Again the flood gates were lifted; from the deluge of explanations and protestations Maitland extracted the general drift of narrative. And in the end held up his hand for silence.

"I think I understand, now. You say he had changed to my gray suit?"

O'Hagan darted into the bedroom; whence he emerged with confirmation of his statement.

"'Tis gone, sor, an'—"

"All right, but," with a rueful smile, "I'll take the liberty of countermanding Mr. Snail's order. If he should call again, O'Hagan, I very much want to see him."

"Faith, and 'tis meself will have a worried or two to whisper in the ear av him, sor," announced O'Hagan, grimly.

"I'm afraid the opportunity will be lacking. You may fix me a hot bath now, O'Hagan, and put out my evening clothes. I'll dine at the club to-night and may not be back."

And, rising, Maitland approached a mirror; before which he lingered for several minutes, cataloguing his injuries. Taken altogether, they amounted to little. The swelling of his wrists and ankles was subsiding gradually; there was a slight redness visible in the corners of his mouth, and a shadow of discoloration on his right temple—something that could be concealed by brushing his hair in a new way.

"I think I shall do," concluded Maitland; "there's nothing to excite particular comment. The bulk of the soreness is inside."

Seven p. m.

"Time," said the short and thick-set man casually, addressing no one in particular.

He shut the lid of his watch with a snap and returned the timepiece to his waistcoat pocket. Simultaneously he surveyed both sides of the short block between Seventh and St. Nicholas avenues with one comprehensive glance.

Presumably he saw nothing of interest to him. It was not a particularly interesting block, for that matter, though somewhat typical of the neighborhood. The north side was lined with five-story flat buildings, their dingy-red brick facades regularly broken by equally dingy brownstone stoops, as to the ground floor, by open windows as to those above. The south side was mostly taken up by a towering white apartment hotel with an ostentatious entrance; against one of whose polished stone pillars the short and thick-set man was leaning.

The sidewalks, north and south, swarmed with children of assorted ages, playing with the ferocious energy characteristic of the young of Harlem; their blood-curdling cries and premature Fourth-of-July fireworks created an appalling din, to which, however, the more mature denizens had apparently become callous, through long endurance.

Beyond the party-colored lights of a drug store window on Seventh avenue, the electric arcs were casting a sickly radiance upon the dusty leaves of the tree-lined drive. The avenue itself was crowded with motor cars and horse-drawn pleasure vehicles, mostly bound uptown, their occupants seeking the cooler airs and wider spaces to be found beyond the Harlem river and along the Speedway. A few blocks to the west Cathedral heights bulked like a great wall, wrapped in purple shadows, its jagged contour stark against an evening sky of suave old rose.

Poisonous Nettles of the Tropics.

In the tropical regions there are nettles far more powerful than that of our own country.

The one called Urtica stimulans, which is found in Java, and that called Laportea crenulata, found in Hindustan, when bruised emit an eddium which poisonously affects the eyes and mouth, and if handled produce convulsions and serious swelling and pain in the arms, which may last for three or four weeks and in some cases cause death.

Scandinavian Dinner Custom.

A strange custom obtains in Norway, Sweden and Denmark. At dinner parties, if the guests are not evenly matched as regards numbers, it is a custom for one man to offer his arm to another if the ladies are not sufficiently numerous, and in this strange manner the guests go to dinner.

The fashion we are told always appears grotesque to the foreigner, and is without charm and without grace.

Not the Reason.

"Perhaps," dolefully suggested the rejected suitor, "your refusal of me was prompted merely by the fact that I am a vegetarian."

"Your inference is quite erroneous," replied the Boston girl. "As a matter of fact I invariably prefer herbivorous to carnivorous animals."

The name of the African continent is of uncertain derivation. The name was first applied to the neighborhood of Carthage, and later extended to the whole continent. Tripoli is a province belonging to the Turkish empire.

Microscopic Writing.

A remarkable machine made by a lately deceased member of the Royal Microscopical society for writing with a diamond seems to have been broken up by its inventor. A specimen of its work is the Lord's prayer of 227 letters, written in the 1,227,000 of a square inch, which is at the rate of 23,800,000 letters or 15 complete Bibles, to a single square inch.

To decipher the writing it is necessary to use a 1-1/2-inch objective, which is the high power lens physicians employ for studying the most minute bacteria.

THE PENNANT FIGHT.

In baseball rabid Chicago they are claiming two pennants. So they are claiming one in Pittsburgh, in New York, in St. Louis and in Detroit. And there you are. And there you are not to be until the October bell rings down the canvas on as ideal a baseball scene as could be dreamed by the most ardent fan or ardent manager.

Like steeds groomed for a turf classic, six clubs in the two organizations rush onward, onward—down a stretch where awaits a stake fit for a king's ransom, races which are shattering precedent and erecting monuments in baseball history are now being enacted before the zealous eyes of millions of baseball fans of the country.

In the American league, Detroit, St. Louis and Chicago fight tooth and nail as the stretch grows shorter, and with the bitterness of long standing enmity and rare competition. In the National, Chicago, New York and Pittsburgh battle desperately. It is a marvelous fight now. It is to be still better.

The boards in the American league show that the teams are to finish the season's play in the west. In the National the east is the choice site for the making of history. In the American league we find that all of the clubs who can really be "seen" for the pennant are western clubs. Therefore the salient point of home play is to help these clubs.

In the National league Pittsburgh and Chicago meet in their struggles on Fenway fields. Now York, Muggsey McGraw's great band of rejuvenated champions, fight it out with invaders on their home territory. Apparently the edge favors immeasurably New York, for the Polo grounds are the scene of luck for the Giants. But does it? The schedule shows that McGraw's men have yet to battle twelve times with the Philadelphia Nationals, and the redoubtable band of Billy Murray is a worker of wonders in the pennant hopes-swinging line, as witnessed when they sent Smokedom into unutterable gloom by the dashing victories over the Pirates.

But no man can point his finger at this or that and say so and so will happen because of it. Baseball's fascination is its uncertainty. Eliminate that and you might as well see heading, and that is why these races are going to be so great. It's the things that are going to happen that we look forward to.

In rapid succession this month Detroit will meet every club in the American league on its home lot. So will St. Louis, and so will the Chicago White Sox. If the monumental "home luck" can follow these club races will be better still, but again it's the uncertainty. The White Sox, famed for gameness in the stretch, geared to a pennant winning clip in its last two weeks of play, is a club which must be watched and counted a potent factor in this classic race, Detroit, too, with a club which has been badly battered by injuries in the loss of Crawford, sinking them into a mire of defeat, will come in at the finish. Ask anyone in St. Louis what Jimmy McEwen's team is going to do and you know the answer. It's great, wonderful.

New York badly harried the Pirates and the Cubs acted in the role of ex-of opportunities filing past you every day in The Gazette Want Columns—YOURS AMONG THEM.

Your opportunity can't pick you out and then drop out of line and come to you. But you can flag it—side track it—label it yours—and proceed to use it to the limit of its possibilities.

Don't say "O, well, other people might find something in The Gazette, but my case is different."

The Gazette Want Ads are for that special purpose of handling the cases that are different—of finding the people that are "different"—and better.

The sole object of all the Want Ads in The Gazette is to bring together the people who have what you want to buy—and what you have to sell.

You can use a Want Ad profitably once a week if you will only think it over seriously.
